SESSION 2 - How Small Groups Work & Your Role

HOW SMALL GROUPS WORK AT SOUL CITY

- Groups run on a 3 session annual schedule that corresponds with the rhythm of life of the people of Soul City Church and provides a clear start and end for group members and an opportunity to welcome new group members 3 times per year.
- One month off between sessions gives our leaders the opportunity to rest and recharge and envision the direction they want to take their group the next session.
- Groups multiply as leaders identify and train new leaders through apprenticeship.
- Coaches care for and develop leaders and most importantly lead them more deeply into their transforming relationship with Jesus.

YOUR ROLE AS A SMALL GROUP LEADER

Small Group Leaders facilitate meaningful conversations in a safe and welcoming environment where people are inspired to grow in their relationships with Jesus and others and raise up new leaders through apprenticeship.

SESSION 3 - Life By the Spirit

One of the arts of spiritual leadership is learning to limit your liberty as to not be a liability to others.

What does the idea of not being a liability to others mean to you?
What does the idea of limiting your liberty mean to you?

Galatians 5:13-26

¹³ You, my brothers and sisters, were called to be free. But do not use your freedom to indulge the flesh; rather, serve one another humbly in love. ¹⁴ For the entire law is fulfilled in keeping this one command: "Love your neighbor as yourself." ¹⁵ If you bite and devour each other, watch out or you will be destroyed by each other.

¹⁶ So I say, walk by the Spirit, and you will not gratify the desires of the flesh. ¹⁷ For the flesh desires what is contrary to the Spirit, and the Spirit what is contrary to the flesh. They are in conflict with each other, so that you are not to do whatever you want. ¹⁸ But if you are led by the Spirit, you are not under the law.

²² But the fruit of the Spirit is love, joy, peace, forbearance, kindness, goodness, faithfulness, ²³ gentleness and self-control. Against such things there is no law. ²⁴ Those who belong to Christ Jesus have crucified the flesh with its passions and desires. ²⁵ Since we live by the Spirit, let us keep in step with the Spirit. ²⁶ Let us not become conceited, provoking and envying each other.

- a. This is useful to be on the same page with everyone

- c. This is useful tool to hold members accountable if they are not meeting expectations

SMALL GROUP GUIDELINES (see additional sheet)

SESSION 5 – Facilitation Skills

The following facilitation skills serve to improve understanding among group members, build open communication channels, and encourage the development of trust and vulnerability so that all members are willing to participate. As you practice these skills you will begin to be able to notice and name what is happening both in the group process and in your members.

1. Involving All Members

- Involving all members is essential for building group cohesiveness, developing a sense of mutual support and encouraging leadership in others.
- Invite participation, but do not demand it. Allowing everyone to be in control of their own story creates safety as people can choose how to tell their story or how much of their story to tell.
- Limit or block a group member's communications, encourage another member to speak, or link one group member's communication to those of another.

2. Asking Good Questions

- Ask questions about thoughts and feelings vs. facts to help members express what's going on inside.
- Help members express their thoughts and feelings about important problems, tasks, or issues facing the group and to reiterate and summarize them when necessary.

3. Active Listening

- Non-verbal behaviors such as eye contact and body position, and verbal behavior that convey empathy, respect, warmth, trust, genuineness, and honesty.
- Listen to the member who is talking and don't interrupt.
- Use statements or question that show genuine interest and invite more communication.

4. Focusing, Clarifying and Reframing

- Ask a member to clarify or elaborate, repeat a particular communication or sequence of communications, or suggest that members limit their discussion to a particular topic.
- Check that a particular message was understood by members of the group and help members express themselves more clearly.
- Reframe someone's statement to help group members examine something from a new perspective.

5. Inviting the Holy Spirit

- Start by praying and asking the Holy Spirit to interact with you during group and declare in prayer that you are open to whatever the Holy Spirit wants to do in you and among you.
- As people in your group share, you may choose to silently pray that they might be guided toward whatever God wants them to notice.
- Offering your focused attention and a silent prayer for God to meet a person in an emotional or difficult moment can be more helpful than getting them a tissue, etc.

6. No fixing, advising, teaching or rescuing

- Advice, suggestions and instructions are appropriate only when people ask for them. Withhold the urge to offer advice, even advice cloaked in a Bible verse, unless it is specifically asked for.
- Attempts to fix a person or a situation pushes the soul into hiding and leaves a person feeling less capable of handling life than the others in the group. Most of the time people just want to be heard- not fixed.
- Your role is to facilitate discussion, not be the authority as a teacher. Even when asked, seek to promote discussion through meaningful questions rather than providing an answer.
- When a person feels sadness, pain or frustration, let them feel it. Even offering seemingly kind gestures like offering a tissue is a signal that the person's emotion is too much for you or the group to handle.

7. Listen to The Silence

- Resist the strong urge to break uncomfortable silence and encourage your group members to do the same.
- Silence allows the people speaking time to listen to themselves, make decisions about what to say next, and allows the Holy Spirit space to do whatever he has in mind to accomplish. Silence is very often a gateway to a deeper level of honesty and openness to learning. Even though it can feel uncomfortable, stay with it and use active listening to let the speaker know you are listening.

New Small Group Leader Orientation

Prayer and Commission

1 Peter 5:1-7

I have a special concern for you church leaders. I know what it's like to be a leader, in on Christ's sufferings as well as the coming glory. Here's my concern: that you care for God's flock with all the diligence of a shepherd. Not because you have to, but because you want to please God. Not calculating what you can get out of it, but acting spontaneously. Not bossily telling others what to do, but tenderly showing them the way.

When God, who is the best shepherd of all, comes out in the open with his rule, he'll see that you've done it right and commend you lavishly. And you who are younger must follow your leaders. But all of you, leaders and followers alike, are to be down to earth with each other, for:

God has had it with the proud, but takes delight in just plain people.

So be content with who you are, and don't put on airs. God's strong hand is on you; He'll promote you at the right time. Live carefree before God; He is most careful with you.

Soul City Church Leadership Code

Dependence

Depend on God, not yourself. Your identity is not what you do - it is who you are, so don't define yourself by your role.

Team

We will build our team around our common calling, our deep character, chemistry, healthy competitive spirits, trust, and mutual submission. We will NOT be about complaining, cynicism, gossip, suspicion or unhealthy comparisons.

Flexibility

We think wet cement is better than hardened cement - we are a team that is willing to change. We do not repeat things because they worked. We do not believe "cut and paste" are methods that promote innovation and creativity.

Generosity

We should be the most generous people in the church. Giving brings us joy!

Leadership Development

Doing less is Doing more! Always look for someone that you can develop into leadership by giving away appropriate authority instead of developing a follower by giving away a task.

BE

BE with God. BE with People. DO the work of God out of the fullness of your BEing.

Growth

NEVER stop growing. We do not tolerate stagnancy, because it's the first sign of death. We don't play the victim and make excuses. We take transformation seriously because that's what we were designed to do.

Honesty

Always tell the truth.

Loyalty

We are loyal to our mission and to one another.

Excellence

Work with excellence and wisdom knowing that you represent God and Soul City Church

HOW TO INVEST & GIVE LEADERSHIP AWAY

The diagram below describes 5 steps for intentional apprenticing with transformation as the ultimate goal. Make it personal, customize it to each situation, and ask your apprentice how they are growing spiritually throughout the process.

When you begin this process, you will likely fall into one of two scenarios:

1. You did not start group with an apprentice: Begin in the Current Session
2. You started group with an apprentice: Begin in the Next Session

WHAT IS AN APPRENTICE?

An apprentice is a Small Group Leader-in-training. They are someone that you think has the potential to become a great small group leader in the future. They are someone that you intentionally invest in by giving them opportunities to practice leading and then debriefing those experiences together to help them grow.

WHAT IS THE PURPOSE OF INVESTING IN AN APPRENTICE?

- To give others an opportunity to discover and use their spiritual gifts
- To grow your own leadership: developing and teaching others refines your skills and character
- To raise up new group leaders in order to realize our vision of growing wide to provide a seat in a circle for everyone who wants to join a group

MODELS OF APPRENTICESHIP

- Jesus trains his apprentice disciples (Mark 6:1-30)
- Paul trains Timothy (1 & 2 Timothy)

And the things that you have heard me say in the presence of many witnesses entrust to reliable people who will also be qualified to teach others.
2 Timothy 2:2

WHAT TO LOOK FOR IN AN APPRENTICE

- Growing in their relationship with Jesus – this is the best indicator of an individual who will make a great Small Group Leader
- Asks good questions
- Gives thoughtful responses that spark deep conversation
- Active listener
- Connects well with and cares for others in the group
- Shows initiative and leadership
- Committed to the group and fully present during group time

HOW DO I INVITE SOMEONE TO BE MY APPRENTICE?

Take them out to coffee and tell them what you see in them.

- Let them know you think they might make a great Small Group Leader in the future and why. Affirm their leadership qualities with specific examples

Explain the role of a Small Group Leader at Soul City Church.

- Small Group Leaders facilitate meaningful conversations in a safe and welcoming environment where people are inspired to grow in their relationships with Jesus and others and raise up new leaders through apprenticeship
- We raise up new leaders to realize our vision of being a healthy and thriving Small Groups Ministry that grows both deep and wide

Invite them to partner with you in leading the group.

- Start by asking them to participate in planning group meetings
- Then, gradually give them opportunities to practice leading
- Provide honest feedback and recommended next steps before the session ends

Small Groups Guidelines

- 1. Be on Time. To the best of your ability please come on time each week. We commit to you that we will begin and end on time.
- 2. Be Considerate. If you must be absent, please inform your leaders. You will be missed when you're not here.
- 3. Be Open. We realize that trust grows over time. In our small group we invite you to share openly about yourselves. If opening up in a group setting is risky, be confident that you don't have to share or participate more than what you're comfortable with.
- 4. Be Trustworthy. Confidentiality is extremely important. What is said in the group is considered confidential and will not be discussed outside the group unless specific permission is given to do so. Share with your friends and family what you are learning, but do not share the content of other people's issues!
- 5. Be Attentive. Listen attentively when group members talk. We will all learn from each other's insights. Whenever possible, link what you say to the comments of others so the group stays on the topic. Please avoid side conversations.
- 6. Be Accepting. Practice acceptance with one another. Avoid being shocked if someone shares startling information. Be sensitive to one another. Remember, every one of us is at a different place on the journey of self-discovery and spiritual growth. Let's respect that.
- 7. Be Gracious. Be careful not to dominate the discussion. We are sometimes so eager to share what we have learned or experienced that we do not leave opportunities for others to respond. By all means participate, but allow others to do so as well.
- 8. Be a Student. Please come with a teachable heart and open attitude to learn and grow. EXPECT to learn and grow through the material being discussed and through the other members in the group.
- 9. Be personal. Talk about yourself and your own situation, avoiding conversation about other people. Use "I" statements, rather than using "we" or "you".
- 10. Be Careful. Be very cautious about giving advice. Ask the person if they'd like some feedback. Or, ask them what they need from the group right now.
- 11. Be Present. Please silence your cell phones, unless there is an important exception. Make a pact with yourself that you can and will give this time to yourself and others and not be a slave to those not present/your phone.

As a member of this group I acknowledge that I fall under the leadership and care of Soul City Church and agree to abide by the above guidelines.

MINISTERING TO DIFFICULT GROUP MEMBERS

Make sure you use the tips below that are in line with the group's purpose, agreements, expectations, and openness. Always trust your instincts and do not be afraid to bring in outside help.

The Non-Talker

I may fear being vulnerable, may seek to call attention to myself via the silence, may be waiting for a leader to draw me out or ask a question directly to me.

Effect on the Group:

Participation is essential for group cohesiveness. Members rarely benefit when they are silent, despite their insistence that they are learning vicariously through others.

What the Leader Can Do:

- Look to include the silent member with non-verbal gestures or demeanor.
- Encourage other members to share their fears about being vulnerable by way of example to the quiet member.
- Meet with the member privately to explore the meaning of the behavior and ensure the best approach with member.

The Over-Talker

I am anxious when there is silence. I interrupt others, rush to fill silence, respond to every statement within group, describe in endless detail topics that are irrelevant to group issues or topics, use compulsive speech for self-concealment. I am holding the group at arms length and preventing the group from relating in a meaningful way.

Effect on the Group:

Frustrate and anger other members. Resentment will build and prevent cohesiveness in the group- resulting in conflict, absentee members, drop-outs, and subgrouping. If this person is behaving this way in the group, then they are likely doing it outside the group.

What the Leader Can Do:

- Creatively cut the member off with a statements like: "I wonder who else feels this way", "I can see that you are very passionate about this topic. Who else has thoughts about this?", "I'd like to hear from some of you who haven't shared yet."
- Offer the member opportunities to engage more fully by asking direct questions about their thoughts and feelings (vs. facts) that will encourage them to share what's really going on inside.
- Walk through the Group Guidelines during the first group meeting and revisit them often. Ask your group to give feedback about which guidelines the group is adhering well to and which guidelines the group needs to grow in and brainstorm how to do it.
- Meet with the member privately to confront the individual about what they are doing and how they can help you make the group a safe and welcoming environment for everyone.

The Narcissist

I think I am superior without issues or problems. I want all the attention, wish to be ideal or seen as ideal by the group, and I hide my real self because of shame or pride.

Effect on the Group:

It is essential that people offer their “real selves” for the group to grow and thrive, and growth only takes place in the context of humility. If this person does not seem capable of empathy or vulnerability, they could begin to take over the group, acting as a god-figure or spokesman for God to the group.

What the Leader Can Do:

- Set the tone for vulnerability and personal growth- make it part of the culture of the group to be humble and to examine yourself.
- Guard the group and address or at least contain the situation.
- In group you could address it by saying, “I notice that something happens when Joe shares. What is going on here?” This allows the group to engage in the healthy process of dealing with the issue. If you aren’t comfortable confronting each other in group, then facilitate by saying something like: “Thanks, Joe, but it is not that great for everyone. How do some of the rest of you feel?”
- If the group is not one where process or feedback are appropriate, offer the person feedback privately.

The Spiritualizer

I give unhelpful and lofty spiritual explanations, ill-timed Bible verses or “religious” input

Effect on the Group:

It stops a person from going through the experience of processing pain or uncomfortable topics. Ill-timed spiritual advice could stop an emotional process that is underway. “It is a way of bailing out of the process and cutting the person off from experiencing God in the depth of the problem. The Bible is a book about real life, and when we use it to avoid real life, we are no longer doing what it says.” (Making Your Small Group Work, Cloud and Townsend)

What the Leader Can Do:

- Evaluate the person’s language. Does it shut the others down? Does it help others feel loved? Does it give a timely truth or correction, or does it punish? Look at the fruit of the saying in the moment.
- Timing is important. Consider intervening in the moment and asking the person to hold their feedback and give the floor back to the person with the issue.
- Intervene in group to the level your group can handle given the Group Guidelines, group purpose and culture. Confront the issue within the group or privately.

The Needy Member or “Help-Rejecting Complainer”

I take up too much group time. I create constant problems that never get resolved, emotional dependency that the group can't meet, inability to be comforted, not taking group advice - preventing growth.

Effect on the Group:

Certain neediness can serve growth, and certain kinds can prevent growth. Individual has an inability to connect with the group. May frustrate, irritate and confuse other members.

What the Leader Can Do:

- Avoid fueling the cycle by offering encouragement or optimism that will likely be rejected.
- Make it a group issue by directly addressing the person's refusal or inability to value, experience, and receive the group's love and care. Additionally, redirect the conversation away from the person and remind them that others would like to share and that they have something to offer in the way of support to others.
- Consider the possibility that the person's needs are more than the group is intended to provide and contact your coach or Small Groups Director for resources and ideas.

The Non-Compliant Member

I am chronically late, have irregular attendance and/or leave early. I do not end my talking when the group time is over. I break confidentiality, not engaging with the group during the meeting, and I am constantly disruption within the group.

Effect on the Group:

Lack of growth, respect, cohesiveness, predictability for the group.

What the Leader Can Do:

- If this is about lack of awareness: address it directly by acknowledging their behavior either privately or when it happens in the group.
- Lack of structure: while they are aware they are perpetually late, they may feel helpless to change the issue. Offer them support from the group in the form prayer, problem-solving, and stricter rules with consequences.
- Entitlement/self-centeredness: since it is likely the person is not aware of the effects of their behavior, allow the group to offer feedback about how it feels when the person does these things.

In General

What the Leader Can Do:

- Walk through the Group Guidelines with your group and revisit them often. Ask your group how the group is going and to give feedback about which guidelines the group is adhering well to and which guidelines the group needs to grow in.

What the Leader Should Not Do:

- Wait for the member to self-correct. It's the leader's responsibility to protect the group from being monopolized, disrupted, etc. and to protect the difficult group member from ruining any chance for connection by irritating everyone.
- Shout the member down or aggressively silence or shame the member. Instead, find about ways to leverage the group dynamic to help the person (see above).
